Students earn course credit by demonstrating mastery of the required coursework and material. Mastery is defined as: sufficient evidence of attainment of the required content, concepts, and skills of a particular course.

In addition to the grading system adopted by the Board, the staff shall seek to assist all students in appraising their own progress and to use such information for career development activities, and make logical and reasonable efforts to inform parents of student academic progress and, when necessary, the design of learning programs. Credit will be awarded upon satisfactory demonstration and mastery of required course competencies.

It is recognized many factors, such as work habits and attitudes, influence student success in school. Such factors are difficult to test, however, information that is evident by observation should be conveyed to the student and parents.

The Superintendent of Schools shall plan the means to apprise the board of academic achievement within the schools and to indicate for the board, general strategies and utilization of resources to monitor and improve instruction.
